

Curriculum Vitae

Roger Sedgley - Director DipArch (Canterbury) ARB

After studying at Canterbury School of Architecture from 1972-1978, Roger began his architectural career in Peterborough working for two medium sized practices, where he was involved as job architect on several large retail and commercial projects, new schools and housing.

In 1987, due to several requests for him to take on projects in his own name, he started Sedgley Associates, where his first major projects were an industrial estate in Peterborough and an extension to a hotel in the West Midlands. From that stage work grew rapidly and in 1989 Roger joined forces with Stephen Alexander to create the current Practice.

He has acted as a judge on the CAMRA Pub Design Awards and the Management in Practice Healthcare Design Awards. Roger has considerable experience in all fields, but his work at Dartford, Wimbledon and Millwall Football Clubs has led to a genuine expertise in football stadium design.

Stephen Alexander - Director BA (Hons) Dip Arch (Hons)

Stephen was educated at the University of Greenwich where he was the first student to achieve a double first for his degree and diploma courses in Architecture. He has over 30 years practice experience working in both public and private sectors.

As a part time tutor at Greenwich University for over eight years, Stephen worked with degree and diploma students when the School of Architecture achieved its excellent rating.

Stephen's expertise and experience gained during his professional career is as diverse as the sectors of work and commissions undertaken by the practice over the years.

As partner or team player, Stephen has been responsible for injecting creativity and innovation into the wide range of projects which the practice has successfully delivered, and contributed award winning projects.

Richard Mullins - Associate BA B Arch (Hull)

Richard has worked for Alexander-Sedgley since 2004.

Educated at the Hull School of Architecture from 1989-1992 and 1995-1996 to Diploma level. Richard completed his architectural education, passing his professional part 3 exams at the University of the South Bank in 2006.

He has worked for several leading practices, such as the internationally renowned Behnisch Architekten in Germany, John Miller and Partners and Architype, where he developed his measured and sensitive approach to architecture. In addition to this, Richard collaborated on an award winning Community Centre in East London, instrumental in the regeneration of a deprived area.

Richard is currently working on residential developments in Putney.
